ABOUT ME

I'm Jesica Gomez, an enthusiastic Software Development student with a special focus on Java and Full Stack technologies. I recently graduated as a Full Stack Java programmer from the University of La Punta, where I gained solid knowledge in web development, databases, and application design. Currently, I'm immersed in a Spring and Python course to expand my skills in enterprise application development.
I'm passionate about learning and constantly growing in the world of technology, so I dedicate time every day to self-study and completing online courses.
